

Herd immunity and resilience for everyone

Declan Ingram¹

¹CERT NZ

CERT NZ is the national CERT for New Zealand, and exists for everyone - not just critical infrastructure. With a small team and limited resources this takes the journey to resilience to a whole new level. We will work through how CERT NZ approached this and what we have found in the first year of operation.

Large organisations can learn a lot from the lessons of helping to secure individuals and smaller businesses they are all made up of people with varying levels of technological interest and know-how.

We will cover overcoming the language barrier, distilling advice into what really matters, effective controls vs spin and much more.
